ABSTRACT:

PURPOSE: To enable an electronic mail originator to easily check a printing processing result.

CONSTITUTION: A mail distributing part 112 in a host computer 110 receives an electric mail to a printer device 120 in its own system 100. The stored/printed information of the mail is sent from the mail distributing part 112 to a printing controller 114, which is controlled so as to execute printing processing. At the time of receiving a printing processing result from the device 120, the controller 114 prepares a record in which the printing processing result corresponds to the mail identifier(ID) of the mail and writes the record in an intermediate file 130. A printing result analyzing part 116 reads out the record from the file 130, prepares transmission information or non-transmission information based upon the contents of the printing processing result set up the record and the prepared information is sent from the distributing part 112 to the originator through a mail network 70.
